

POTATO POWER - TRIPPING

Help the world survive the attack of the potato users

Your character.

You're a potato user.
A potato is an item in which you can write abilities or effects.
Only a minority of gifted humans can wield them.

Why are you fighting?

- You were drafted. It's your duty.
- Revenge. The potato people took something precious from you.
- Other motives. You're working on another goal while acting as you care about the same as the others.

Your potato powers

You can use potatoes to write new properties on you or on your eq.
These abilities are being three types

- Destruction. Great energy to cause damage.
- Alteration. Changes properties of physical objects or materials.
- Illusion. Change the perception of another character.

Choose ~~two~~ of them for your char. to be proficient with. Abilities of the types your character is not proficient at will have limitations or require a trade-off.

Choose a background

- What's your job? What are you an ex-part of? This is your Job
- What's your story? How did you get there? This is your origin

Actions

Roll a d10. It's only failure and 10 is a crit success. Difficulty will be solely decided by the GM.

The plot

The main problem is the potato people (the original potato users) invading our society with military might

What does the invasion look like?

- Open invasion. The world is at war and our home is a battlefield
- Secret menace. Normal people don't notice the problem but the resistance stays strong in the shadows.
- Cold war. The threat is clear but there is espionage and sabotage instead of open conflict.

Obstacles

- The potato people will attack our forces and make them defend themselves
- There could be a time limit to deactivate a bomb/weapon to avoid mass destruction.
- A sudden attack separates the group and makes the players work separately towards the same goal.

Encounters

- An ally is planning an offensive that promises great reward
- There was word on a possible threat incoming. Your group is tasked to investigate the matter
- A wretched group asks for help after the war took its toll on them.

Locations

- Ally frontlines
- Normal city (secret setting)
- Hidden base or trench base.